

Dr. Jane Goodall DBE

Dr Jane Goodall was a renowned ethologist and UN Messenger of Peace who revolutionised our understanding of chimpanzees and the natural world. Her pioneering research and lifelong commitment to global advocacy made her a role model. Recognised as a Dame Commander of the Order of the British Empire (DBE), she inspired and empowered generations of future conservation leaders.

BIOGRAPHY

We were deeply privileged to work with Dr. Jane Goodall as a speaker. Her words changed rooms. Her deeds changed the world. She showed us that one person, armed with curiosity and compassion, could revolutionise how we understand ourselves and our place in nature. She didn't just study chimpanzees — she revealed our shared humanity with them. We witnessed audiences transformed by her presence, both in-person and online. Leaders who came seeking insights left with renewed purpose. Young people who arrived curious departed committed. Jane spoke with the authority of six decades in the field and the warmth of someone who never stopped believing in our capacity to do better. Her legacy lives in every person she inspired to act. In every forest protected. In every young person empowered to make a difference. May she rest in peace.
